

DIGI-TALKS

The student organization Digi-Talks seeks innovative and creative student-volunteer with an interest in digitalisation and technology.

Digi-Talks consists of a group of committed and engaged students from several different Danish universities. Through a wide variety of initiatives, such as hosting events and offering insights and updates through our news feature on our website, and our social medias, we seek to create awareness about the impact of digitalisation in society and business for university students.

About the position

As a volunteer member of Digi-Talks, you have the opportunity to help spread knowledge about digitization and bridge the gap students might experience when going from university to the job market, by coordinating events at universities such as University of Copenhagen, Copenhagen Business School, IT-University, and DTU. You will become part of a social and committed team of fellow student volunteer, whom you will share the responsibility for both planning Digi-Talks events and other job tasks.

You will gain experience with a number of different tasks, including:

- Settlement, development and planning of events
- Communication with speakers
- Internal coordination in an organization
- Updating Digi-Talks social media during events

What do we expect?

It is important that you are able to meet for 17:00-19:00 each monday, and furthermore participate in various events throughout the semester. We expect you to be a team player but still full of ideas you wanna try out on our professional playground. You might have to set aside an average of 3-5 hours per week for your efforts monday included, although it fluctuates greatly depending on the frequency of events during a given period. We expect that you can volunteer for a minimum of half year and that you are a student at a Danish university in the greater Copenhagen area.

In return we can offer:

A fun volunteer job where you can combine your interest in digitalisation and technology with event coordination

The opportunity to give university students important knowledge about digitalisation and technology, and informing them on how their academic competences can be applied on the future job market

Becoming a member of a fun, socially active group of competent and creative students across several different universities

The opportunity to give university students important knowledge about digitalisation and technology, and how their studies can use these in the future job market

The opportunity to form and influence your tasks in a professional playground

It sounds great! What do I do now?

Are you interested in being part of Digi-Talks - then send an application and a CV to apply@digิ-talks.dk. We will then invite you to a personal interview.